

Investment Perspective

FROM BROTHERS FOUNDATION FUNDS

MAY 2016

MARKETS AND THE ECONOMY

Increases in oil prices helped boost energy stocks, and the S&P 500 Index generated a modest gain of 0.4 percent in April. Amidst low inflation, decelerating consumer spending, continuing concerns of economic sluggishness abroad, and the potential impact of the U.K. exiting the European Union, the Federal Reserve Bank left interest rates unchanged, with no clear guidance on future moves. A contraction in business investment and weak global demand contributed to the U.S. gross domestic product repeating a familiar pattern, advancing at a 0.5 percent annualized basis in the first quarter. While prices for gasoline, medical care, and shelter increased, they were offset by declines in prices for food and clothing; the consumer price index rose 0.4 percent in March from a month earlier. The bond market, as measured by the Barclays Capital Government/Credit Index, crept up 0.5 percent in April.

The European Central Bank left interest rates unchanged but kept the door open for additional stimulus measures. The Eurozone's GDP grew 1.6 percent on an annualized basis in the first quarter over the prior year, and unemployment dropped from 10.4 percent to 10.2 percent. A deterioration in manufacturing and construction contributed to the U.K. GDP slowing to an annualized rate of 1.6 percent in the first quarter, down from 2.4 percent in the prior quarter. While March consumer price inflation declined 0.3 percent from a year earlier, the Bank of Japan chose not to launch any additional stimulus measures to combat chronically weak inflation. China's economic growth slowed to an annualized rate of 6.7 percent in the first quarter, down from 6.8 percent in fourth quarter 2015. International equities, as measured by the MSCI EAFE Index, rose 2.9 percent in April.

ANNUAL LISTS OF PUBLICLY TRADED DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE CONTRACTORS RELEASED

Each year, as part of its socially responsible investing initiatives, Brethren Foundation Funds commissions two lists of companies that earned significant revenue from U.S. military operations in the government's most recently completed fiscal year. One list identifies the top 25 publicly traded defense contractors, based on the size of contracts awarded by the Department of Defense. The other list includes all publicly traded companies (59 additional companies) that generated more than 10 percent of their revenue from Department of Defense contracts. The lists produced for 2016 were adopted by the BFFI Board during its April meeting. The firms on the lists will be screened from BFFI's self-managed investment portfolios in 2016, as directed by BFFI's Investment Guidelines, as will firms that receive more than 10 percent of their revenue from abortion, alcohol, firearms and other weapons, gambling, pornography, or tobacco. Companies that are egregious violators of environmental regulations or human rights are also screened from BFFI's portfolios. In addition to screening these companies out of its investments, BFFI will not knowingly use the services of any DOD list company or other company in violation of SRI as listed in BFFI's Investment Guidelines in 2016.

Several household names appear on the Department of Defense lists, such as General Electric, Hewlett-Packard, and Royal Dutch Shell. URS is new to the 2016 top 25 list, and AECOM dropped off the list.

Copies of these two lists are available upon request or at cobbt.org/screening.
